British Coolness

Changed Shirts, Duster, Charge and Smooth Cigarette Cigar

An Englishman writes: Splendid work, even in the capture of prisoners, was done by the signalmen, many of whom were captured and made to march. One of them found himself all alone and wounded at the mouth of a tunnel. He told the Germans that his way of occupation he told the men they were his prisoners, and then, taking a cigarette from his pocket, he held his body, called for assistance and guides to the prisoners.

The whole time this soldier's battle—was marked by unmuffled episodes of personal acts of derring-do, coolness, and skill. They were too weak. They stopped to light German cigars, to taste the exquisitely prepared German sandwiches—which they were hilariously wolfing down at the rate of one man, with a duster of the same, deliberately changed his damp and muddy shirt for a clean German garment and a cigarette.

I have never heard higher praise of our artillery, and the signs of its superb work are all over the scene. Everywhere in the near neighborhood of a trench the German is like a frightened, disorganized animal; it was pounded to the highest pitch of nervous precision. One food dump contained excellent cutlets, sausages, eggs, bacon, ham, water, and other luxuries. Cigars were "frequent and free," and coffee was served to the soldiers. One brigade took 54 machine guns and I heavy mortars.

War and Insanity

Statistics Show Marked Reduction in Madness Since Strange Began

Probably the average man is under the impression that war has a tendency to increase insanity. It is generally considered that anything so destructive of life and property, so exceeding the normal, has an exceedingly perturbing effect upon the human mind and cause insanity.

Paradoxical, however, as it may seem, war has just an opposite result. As a matter of fact, insanity rates among the various asylum authorities since the war began, there has been a marked decrease.

This is, of course, to be suggested that this is due to the fact so many men are now away in the distracting competition of the industrial world into the army, where there is a great deal of mental and interesting work to be done.

It is a contributory cause, but recent records of insanity among women women as well as men.

What, then, are the general causes of insanity? For this, statistics of state of mind? Well, in this time of peace, they tell us in order to distract the mind from its desire to form an amusement, people resort to forms of amusement, such as the use of alcohol, instead of the more serious forms of amusement.

World's Food Reserves

Becoming Very Low

The following circular letter has been sent out by The A. Macmillan & Co. Ltd., wholesale grocers of Winnipeg:

The reserves of food supplies in the world have become so low that the feeding of the people is causing much concern among thinking people in all countries.

At the risk of being called alarmists, we wish to call the scarcity of food supplies and the poor crop results from many parts of the world, should cause us to stop and consider.

The obtaining of eatables supplied by the Wholesale Grocer, gathered from all parts of the world, has now come to a standstill. Some countries are not to be had, and others only in small amounts. This, coupled with inadequate transportation facilities, makes the situation really alarming.

We, in Canada, do not want to be the last ones to look the situation well in the face and get accordingly.

Many people are wasting energy in trying to find out what to do, but it would seem as if it would only be necessary to call the attention of our people to the real situation confronting us in order that our local troubles might be avoided altogether by conserving the foods we now have, and adding should there be a need to increase production both in farm and garden products.

From present indications it would seem that there might be a possibility, even with a large crop in western Canada, of a very serious scarcity of things to eat during the next 12 to 18 months.

The time has arrived when we must do everything in our power to eliminate waste and, to increase production. Immediate action is needed. A mere alarm will not accomplish results.

Drawing Heavily on Reserves

(Via Reuters' Ottawa Agency.)

London, May 1.—Reuters' correspondent at the British Embassy, the capital of the Anglo-French offensive up to the present, has been unable to engage reserves which had been assembled for quite another purpose, the western front, in the west. The Germans apparently have a strategic reserve of 44 divisions in the west. This is the largest number ever seen.

Over half of these were withdrawn from the reserves over the last week.

The Germans, continued the correspondent, are momentarily pouring troops into the battle of the Russian peace.

It is known that the enemy has altogether 215 divisions in the west, 100 in the west. The number of prisoners taken by the French and British during April is equivalent to six divisions in bayonet strength.

What might have been a serious, if not fatal, accident to the driver, was avoided by the fact that he was hitched in a wagon containing a load of hay, ran from James Blair's stable to the Beaver Lumber Co.'s yard. It seems that the support running up from the wagon from four to five feet, gave way, letting the man drop to the tongue of the wagon. The frightened horses, however, did not run away, but stood still, and the man managed to hold on and crawled up to the heads of the horses, while they were running, until he could reach the lines and stop them. The driver was greatly assisted in his efforts to stop the team by the fact that they ran the wagon into the ditch and the load dropped to the ground. The team and load of hay belonged to Charles Thompson and were driven by a young man in his employ.

THE VANDALS OF EUROPE

The Germans are still retreating, though the pace has been slackened, they are behaving as they go just as the world has learned to expect that German would behave. They are taking away with them everything of any value, and are constantly and only destroying what they cannot carry. Their cruelty to the inhabitants of the territory they have occupied and are now being forced to abandon almost passes comprehension. Abandon almost passes comprehension, and they are taking with them what they if they were left they might be used to make munitions for the French Army—an excuse which few will accept as complete. No civil or military people in Granum saw any harm in the Germans having wasted it. The Germans showed very early in the war that the rules agreed upon between all civilized nations were not going to be kept by them, and they continued to do so, and themselves, the ground that the more terrible war was made the sooner would it be over, and that was the essence of their excuse for Belgium. With their usual misgivings, the people in Granum believed that if they only practised firmerness on the civilian population, the German Government would be forced to give up. In event case the Germans had been just as bad as the Allies, it begins to look as if there were something in the threat in one of the German papers that if they cannot win the war they will take care to drag the whole world down with them in red ruin. The treacheries of the Germans are not yet spelt out.

They made war for booty, and they are remaining true to their original intent.

It is to be hoped that Germany will suffer for generations to come, and that the future will be synonymous with barbarism. Germans the people have not been taught to do wrong, but they can do no wrong, and that what the world orders must be right.

Japan is showing more and more certain every day that the capacity of the German for mischief is being exceeded.

But soldier puts it, Fritz is turning his face towards home, and he is being wiped off the world.

The German is recognising the fact that he is not wanted, when the Kaiser is in a glorious retreat. This retreat is glorious for the Germans in just the same way as the battle of Jutland was a victory for them.

THE HOME GARDEN

Yes, in the poor man's garden grow Far more than herbs or flowers.

Kind thoughts, contentment, peace of mind.

And joy for hours.

Surprised you so that you are almost on the point of admitting it to yourself.

You know that it is impossible to expect anyone to keep the pace you are setting, and that the garden which comes with time will endanger your position.

Keep your brain and make your head save your heds, as the saying goes.

Keep the garden getting fat and pukey, try walking home every night and make the walk a pleasure.

Drink more water, eat less meat.

It is possible to keep your physical condition such that you can endure the heat of the sun, and when you burn the candle at both ends and take no thought of tomorrow.

You may have a strong vigor and a fair frame, has been.

Don't let anyone put one over on you like that, and if you do, you are the "old man" or not.

Most people cannot give a man advantage over you.

coming to emerge from the present confusion of our political and social aims it is precisely with regard to this fundamental necessity of making a better use of the time and all leisure resources.—Viscount Milner.

Waste ground and spare time may be jointly used for the increased production.

The planting of the backyard garden is a cost of living defence against the cost of living.

Will you encourage turning waste garden space into fruiting summer?

"HELLO, THERE, OLD MAN."

So somebody called you "the old man" and it struck home? First time you had ever thought of yourself as the "old man"?

Surprised you so that you are almost on the point of admitting it to yourself.

"The Cow Bill"

The Live Stock Encouragement Act, a document introduced at the recent session of the Alberta Legislature, commonly known as "The Cow Bill," is now in operation and applications are being received at the Department of Agriculture for loans under this Act. The Act provides that any five or more farmers may avail themselves of its provisions by joining together to form a co-operative association, and may borrow up to $600 each. The money is loaned to them for a period of five years at 6 per cent. interest. The farmer receives the full $600 and he has nothing to pay but $60 interest once a year until the end of five years. The only expense in connection with the loan is 1 per cent. for every $100 advanced. The co-operative association in connection with chattel mortgages or the registration of the same, as the Live Stock Commissioner in the Department of Agriculture holds the cattle in security for the loan by means of a government brand. A certain amount of supervision is made over the purchase of cattle, and the farmer is required to contribute whatever assistance he may require in the purchase of his cows. The money must be used exclusively in the purchase of cows or heifers, except in case of a number of members of an association wish to purchase a pure-bred bull to be used by them as an association, and then 10 per cent. of their money may be used for this purpose.

The purchaser of live stock under this Act must retain the property of the cows or heifers so purchased until the note is paid, except that he can sell the steers when they are two years old and use the proceeds in connection with his farming business. No other live stock, excepting a few cows or heifers bred from them, can be sold without the written consent of the Live Stock Commissioner. This consent, of course, will be given to a farmer should he require to sell any of them on account of their being non-breeders or for any other reason, replying those sold with other cows or heifers. The value of the stock will be practically all he can get, and after the first crop of calves has been raised, so that there will be a comparatively small amount of risk either for the Government or for any individual member of an association.

In order to avail themselves of the loan, the members of the association will be required to sign joint and several notes for the amount; so that in case of any man wilfully neglecting his stock there will be some interested person in the shape of another member of the syndicate to notify the Live Stock Commissioner, and, under the provisions of the Act, can take charge of the property if it is neglected, and that the other members of the syndicate as well as the Government are protected against loss.

Provision is also made in the Act for the Live Stock Commissioner to proceed against the one man who so neglects his stock and compel him to pay whatever loss there is while involving the other members of the association in a suit, the title being worked out, as possible as possible, a system by which men can borrow money at a low rate of interest for the purchase of live stock, and still have reasonable protection for the Treasury of the Province of Alberta, which guarantees that the interest will not materially reduce the rate of interest.

Already a number of applications have been received from associations, and the Live Stock Commissioner is now prepared to take the matter up with any farmers who are interested in the Act. Write the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, for information, forms of application and copies of the Stock Encouragement Act.

Are You a "Duck"?

Why do you eat hen fruit? There's a reason. Now ducks, geese and turkeys lay eggs, and they are larger than hens' eggs.

Do you know that ducks and geese lay eggs? Why we happened to stumble over a duck or a goose while strolling around the farm one day, and, in stumbling, inadvertently kicked her off the nest. It was an accident. The duck did not tell us so with the language of the animal.

The undersigned will receive tenders in a business like war. She works regularly every day in certain seasons, and when she has her product ready for market, she immediately gets out and hollers about it. She lets us know that she is in the egg business, and naturally we buy her eggs.

The time has come in the egg market.

Who ever heard of a cutter in duck egg? Mr. Merchant, are you a duck or a hen—in business?
